

Willowbrook New Raptor Housing

- Larger living quarters for the falcons, hawks and owls of the center's educational outreach team
- 12 enclosures that allow birds to live alone or in pairs
- Customized spaces to accommodate birds' individual needs based on their disabilities
- Better lighting, access to electricity and perching options, which means more effective training for the birds
- "Weathering areas," highly enriching and visually stimulating spaces that let the birds spend time safely outdoors in the natural elements
- A structure to honor the land donor's request that part of Willowbrook Wildlife Center remain a sanctuary for birds
